Reviewer Comments

For author and editor

1. What kind of analysis the author make to run the data?
2. Could you clarify the tools and result for motivation and knowledge?

Subject: Re: [MJN] Editor Decision

Dear Editor Malaysian Journal Nursing (MJN)

Good question!
 Thank you for the response.
 We will answer the questions asked

1. Data was collected using a questionnaire instrument in the form of a checklist and confirmed through structured interviews to synchronize the answers given by respondents regarding triple elimination. Then a descriptive statistical analysis was carried out on the respondents' answers given on the checklist using SPSS version 17, and a conclusion was drawn.
2. The tool used to collect data in this research is a questionnaire instrument in the form of a checklist and confirmed through structured interviews. The questionnaire instrument in the form of a checklist, in addition to biodata, also contains questions to collect respondents' knowledge about triple elimination (HIV, syphilis, and hepatitis) and also motivation for carrying out the examination. The research results obtained generally show that the respondents' knowledge about triple elimination is still new and not yet well understood, which results in low motivation from respondents (initial conditions), and after knowing the description of the explanation about triple elimination in a comprehensive way, it increases the motivation of respondents to carry out pregnancy checks in accordance with the recommendations of health workers.

Thank you
